

DAILY DEMOCRAT.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY MARNEY & HUGHES,
THIRD STREET,
WEST SIDE, BETWEEN MARKET AND JEFFERSON STREETS,
NOTICE TO ALL.—It will be remembered that a general advertisement made the last for an A. S. C. Advertisements of Pauline Mead, such as "Fireman's," "Mason's," "F. W. Smith's," "J. W. Smith's," and "Charitable Institution," are charged only half news value, and may be paid in advance. Those, therefore, that are sent in without the money, will not appear.

All advertisements of a Half Square ($100) or less are inserted in the morning Daily Democrat at 50 cents; and in the Evening, and 95 cents each additional.

Advertisements inserted in the (morning) Daily Democrat daily characterize inserted in the evening at half price.

AGENCY.—V. B. PARKER, corner Third and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, and at the Tribune Building, New York, is the authorized agent to receive advertising in those cities for the Louisville Democrat.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1855.

The Louisville Journal has discovered that we said, sometime or other, that the citizens of this country had a right to go to Cuba when they pleased and as they pleased, and now we caution them not to organize military expeditions upon our soil—all of which is dismally inconsistent.

It is full now of the notion of consistency, like a man dreaming on a locomotive, he fancies all the world in motion, flying back with locomotive speed.

We have a law against military expeditions, gotten up upon our soil to invade a foreign country; and we contend that it extends to farther than our own civil jurisdiction. The editor of the Journal doesn't know exactly what he would have done by the President, in case of a revolution in Cuba. When Pierce does say what he did, the Journal will repeat what said of Fillmore, with the full understanding that it applies to Pierce as well.

We shall have Cuba after a while, whenever the Cubans are ready. It was thought they were ready some time ago. The system of espionage on the island renders it impossible to judge with certainty.

Cuba cannot long remain as it is; but the destiny of the islands is in the hands of our people. We always thought they could only get help from other people—other than the work. We never justified aid to Cuba, except upon the ground that it was desired by the Cubans, and invited by them, and, consequently, their own work.

Some of the Cuban papers are discussing the expediency of altering their State constitution. It is not a favorable time to change the organic law of a State. Hard times give birth to too many theories; but, if we do the work, we are prone to ascribe to laws evils which grow out of other causes, when they feel the pressure.

Most of the States have made one change in their constitutions which we are satisfied is not for the better, in providing for biannual instead of annual sessions of the legislature. I very questionably if they either diminish the amount or improve the wisdom of legislation by this means; and it is better that the subject of political discussion are the means of educating our people in questions that concern our political institutions.

A person can hardly spend too much time in politics; if they don't attend to the subject, they will soon find men ready to attend to it for them. Great as is the excitement in elections in this country, not over three fourths of the voters go to the polls, and generally not so large a portion. Under our present system of electing legislators, there will be still greater indifference on the subject. This feature of our State constitutions will be changed; not so much in this Commonwealth, for it is too difficult to make a change—but in most of our neighboring States.

The democratic convention of Ohio, held on the 8th of January last, passed the following resolutions. Show us any other party in a free State that dare say more:

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio are attached to the Union of the States, and the constitution, in which are expressed the principles and the compromises upon the basis of which the Union was formed; and that we, as a people, are bound to uphold that Union, and to a strict adherence to what above that Union can be preserved, and they, and they, and they, to the peace and liberties of the country, and to all our endeavours to sustain the reputation of our country.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal affairs, and maintain its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs the right to accept and modify its own municipal law, to regulate its own internal, external, and foreign policy, and every State, and that upon those rights the nation, and upon those rights the nation, can neither legislate nor encroach.

Resolved, That this convention, in behalf of the democracy of Ohio, hereby repeat the planks of resolution adopted by its national convention, which avowed, in 1837, that "Ohio, in June, 1832, as a clear and distinct declaration of our political principles.

Resolved, That the democracy of Ohio, at the same time, highly recognises the importance held by the slaves in the South, and still maintains by the democratic party in all the States, that to each State belongs

DAILY DEMOCRAT.

MINIATURE ALMANAC.

| | Sun | Mon | Tues | Wed | Thurs | Fri | Sat | Sun |
|--------------|----------|------|------|-----|-------|-----|-----|-----|
| January | 29 | 30 | 31 | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |
| 20 Monday | ... 6 59 | 6 61 | | | | | | |
| 21 Tuesday | ... 6 58 | 6 62 | | | | | | |
| 22 Wednesday | ... 6 57 | 6 63 | | | | | | |
| 23 Thursday | ... 6 56 | 6 64 | | | | | | |
| 24 Friday | ... 6 55 | 6 65 | | | | | | |
| 25 Saturday | ... 6 54 | 6 66 | | | | | | |
| 26 Sunday | ... 6 53 | 6 67 | | | | | | |

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1855.

177 FOR AUCTIONS, AUCTION SALES, &c., see appropriate heads.

 See notice of dissolution, and stock of slaves, and all war for sale, in another column.

 This will be held at Nashville on the 22d February, a State Temperance Convention.

 More than 300 passengers went up on the Jeffersonville cars, yesterday morning.

 A lad named John Turner, only 14 years of age, became intoxicated one day last week and was flogged to death.

 The sidewalks are slippery. Citizens, and others, especially on the pavements, and people will not then step up.

 Gen. Sam. Houston has declined delivering one of the anti-slavery course of lectures in Texas. This is wise. Delivering lectures is not in the way to the presidency.

 The Eastern mail is now sent via Liverpool, so the fares may be paid by either our city or the country side.

 "What are the wild waves saying?" don't know; but all the people are saying, go to Hawaii; if you want to get a highly hatched coon.

 Char. C. Green & Son are manufacturing a superior quality of bank ink, for which we have a patent. We have tried the ink, and recommend it as excellent ink.

 Tennessee copper is now shipped to Europe. The ships Florida and Consul, with full cargoes of the ore, recently sailed from Savannah to Liverpool.

 The Catholic Telegraph states that the venerable Father Matthew is at Madeira in distress, in want of means to pay his board. His right hand is paralyzed.

 The Indianapolis Sentinel says that Laura Bank is no longer in the first class banks, having failed to pay specie. It belongs to the third class.

 George N. Sanders, ex-consul to London, was in Cincinnati, en route for New York. He has been suffering for several days past, at Grace Hotel, Ky., with Col. Lewis Sanders, his father.

 The Hook and Ladder company will have a procession to-day. They will meet at Joseph Wolf's room, on Market street, above Flyer, at 12 o'clock. The other companies are invited to participate.

 The alarm of the last night was caused by the bursting of a chimney on Preston, rear Jefferson. A small private engagement took place between two citizens, who, it is said, were knocked on the scene with a trumpet. Not much hurt.

 Two characters—Julia Dean, on her marriage night, enacted the play of the Hunchback, to which may be added, "The Wife," an after-piece. Julia is a charming actress, and we have no doubt she appropriately sustained that ardent character.

 We are cut off from the mails, and, of course, without any explanation, papers opened to the administration will wax wiser in their denunciation of the Post Master General, as he had nothing to do with floating ice and cold weather.

 All the State Banks of Wisconsin, except the Oshkosh City Bank, have the Milwaukee Sentinel, have deposited with the Comptroller the 10 per cent additional security called for by that officer, to offset the depreciation of State stocks.

 Two million, coming from a funeral, were racing their horses up Jefferson street on yesterday, when one of the horses slipped, fell, and pitched said mucky over his head. It was thought at first he was killed by the fall, but he escaped with some terrible bruises.

 The recent storm was quite severe in the city of Chicago. Some houses were injured by the gales and others were blown down, while the streets were literally strewn with signs, awnings, and balloons torn away from their fastenings by the heavy wind. The snow lay in drifts in many places ten feet in depth.

 We notice in Jersey City, a fire on gins and laces carriages were locked up for a few days, by order of the Common Council committee and Chief Engineer, for the members of the company racing through the streets in returning from a stall of fire.

 We call attention to the card of Edward McCormick, recent master mechanic in the employ of the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad Company. It will be seen that he deserves emphatically the charge recently circulated to his prejudice, as he thinks, by interested parties. It is a pitiful revenge to circulate so vile a slander for the injury of another.

 We are requested, by Messrs. S. G. Henry & Co., to mention that they have a special card this morning, Thursday, at 10 o'clock, at auction rooms, of a large lot of steamboat comfortables, sheets, cotton and shuck mattresses, carpets, &c., also, a variety of good cabin furniture, all of which will be sold without reserve, for cash.

 A female writer in the Home Journal, in answer to the question, "What does it cost to dress a lady?" replies, that $1,000 a year, spent very carefully by a person who owns much, would prove insufficient; $2,000 is nearer the average, without including furs and jewelry, and that $3,000 or $4,000 could be spent very easily when Russian sables and diamonds are brought into the picture.

 We ought to have waited yesterday morning, a fast much to the credit of one of our citizens, William H. Stoile. After the ferry boat had lodged on the falls, he went to the captain of the steamer Hartford, and generously offered to be personally responsible for the safety of his boat, if he would go to the rescue of the passenger boat to get the woman off. It was not judged best for the boat to go, but the offer was none the less generous, as Mr. St. had no more interest in the matter than any other citizen.

 PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.—The TOBACCO manufacturing establishment, so long and successfully conducted by Messrs. Moseley & Co., has been purchased by Messrs. S. P. Dick, D. H. Owen, and S. W. Hammon, who will continue the business under the firm of S. P. Dick & Co.

 The brands of tobacco from this house (Moseley & Co.) have stood the test for years, and the firm into whose hands the entire machinery, &c., has passed will, of course, be able to fill all orders with the same superior tobacco. Read advertisement for particulars.

 THEATRE.—We were even better pleased last evening with Miss Makeham than on her first appearance. There is a pathos in her voice the audience can hardly resist. In some scenes she held that audience enthralled in death like silence, and that we take it is the best evidence that she has power and makes it feel. In some portions she was not well sustained. We look for better to-night. She will this evening play Parchenia, and Mr. Johnston takes the part of Ingomar. The play is a good one, and the actress, we believe, fully equal to her part.

ORIGINAL CHAMBER.

TALK ON "CHANGE."

WEATHER AND RIVER.

